

IT'S NOT VERY OFTEN THAT THE THOUGHT OF A RAT COULD PUT SUCH A PEACEFUL EXPRESSION ON A CHILD'S FACE.

Children with lymphocytic leukemia now have an eight in ten chance of survival thanks to the research performed using laboratory animals, which has paved the way for such treatments as chemotherapy, radiotherapy and bone marrow grafting. Just ask Alicia.

ANIMAL RESEARCH SAVES LIVES.

